

A CREATIVE TALENT GETS THE UN'S ATTENTION

TOI - 02/05/15

Freelance writer of Dombivli-Kalyan Plus and principal of Bharat College, Dr Sunil Sharma recently received remarkable news to cherish for his lifetime. His English poem 'Flowers in the pot' was selected by the international edit panel of the United Nations (UN) SRC Society of Writers, and is published in the book titled 'Happiness: The Delight-Tree' that was released at its headquarters in New York on March 20, 2015. March 20 is celebrated as the International Day of Happiness and the release coincided with that. "I sent three poems in English to them around five months ago. Then, in the beginning of the year 2015, I was told that one of my poems 'Flowers in the pot' has been accepted by their international edit panel," informed Dr Sharma, adding further, "It was a great feeling! My silent work in the field of literature was getting recognized by the highest body of the world that is the 'United Nations.'" Dr Sharma is one among the three chosen poets from India in the 56-nation anthology that explored the emotion of happiness through poetry.
